

THE FRIENDLY BEAR

Barry was a big brown bear who lived near a forest river. Even though he was big, Barry was very friendly. He liked to wave at the other animals as they passed by.

One day, Barry saw a small squirrel trying to cross the river. The water was moving fast, and the squirrel was scared. Barry slowly walked into the water and let the squirrel climb onto his back.

Barry carried the squirrel safely to the other side of the river. The squirrel thanked Barry and ran off to play. Barry felt happy because he helped a friend.
